

27 May 2013

The little yellow ball at Paris airports too!

Game, set and match! From Sunday 26 May 2013, passengers will be able to watch Roland-Garros tournament matches broadcast live by France Télévisions in special areas set up by Aéroports de Paris.

"Aéroports de Paris wishes to offer its customers the opportunity to relax and watch some sport in its terminals. There's such a great atmosphere at these matches and they're so exciting that we were convinced we had to develop this type of entertainment service," explained Olivier Tarneaud, Director of Services at Aéroports de Paris.

Roland-Garros, Tour de France... there'll be no shortage of sporting events during summer 2013

Aéroports de Paris is once again focusing on sporting events and, in partnership with France Télévisions, is providing passengers at its Paris airports with seven areas where they can watch sports broadcasts for free.

Aéroports de Paris builds, develops and manages airports including Paris-Charles de Gaulle, Paris-Orly and Paris-Le Bourget. In 2012, nearly 89 million passengers passed through the Paris airports, which handled 2.3 million tonnes of freight and mail. Aéroports de Paris and its partner, TAV Airports, benchmark airport operator in Turkey, directly and indirectly manage 37 airports in the world for a total of about 200 million passengers.

Thanks to the attractiveness of Paris and its international position, the Group is pursuing its strategy of adapting and modernising its terminal facilities, upgrading quality of services, and also diversifying its sources of income thanks to retail and real estate business. In 2012, the group revenue stood at €2,640 million and the net income at €341 million.
